INTRODUCTION

THE CANADIAN TRADE INDEX is designed to provide buyers and sellers of Canada and other countries with an authoritative directory of all products manufactured in Canada, and the names of the firms making them. It includes a complete list of Canadian manufacturers having more than a local distribution for their products, irrespective of membership in the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. Their products are classified under some 10,000 different headings.

This new edition of the INDEX includes details of many new firms and a great variety of new products, some of them being made in Canada for the first time. In addition, it embodies countless thousands of changes of names, addresses, products listings, foreign representatives, etc.

The accurate and detailed classifications in this directory will ordinarily enable prospective purchasers to get in touch at once with manufacturers of the goods desired. Where specialized information is needed, buyers are invited to call on the gratuitous service of the Commercial Intelligence Department of the Association. It is suggested that importers abroad should first communicate with the nearest Canadian Government Trade Commissioner, consulting the list of their addresses on pages 264-5 of the Export Section. Representatives of overseas firms visiting Canada are invited to call at the Head Office of the Association where they will be given every possible assistance.

Users of the INDEX will find the regular advertising sections invaluable in supplementing the information contained in the alphabetical and classified sections of the Directory. Advertising page numbers are indicated opposite the classified and alphabetical listings of advertisers and, in addition, your attention is invited to the classified Business Cards beginning on page 1051. For other classifications of advertisers see Table of Contents on page 3.

Canada now manufactures a wider range of high grade products than ever before, so—"Buy Canadian—Buy Quality".

The publishers wish to thank the manufacturers, government departments, and other organizations who have furnished information upon which this book is based.

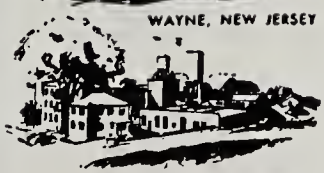
MACK molds for the leaders

Leaders of industry count on MACK for precision plastic molding. Many of these have been steady MACK customers for over a quarter of a century. Complete satisfaction from mold design to finished product is the reason why MACK enjoys a reputation for reliability in plastic molding. Whether your production involves large or small quantities in simple or intricate designs, the name MACK is assurance of finished-right, priced-right and delivered-on-time molded plastics.

Let MACK figure it in plastics



It's good business to let MACK figure on your plastic molding needs because MACK is one of the original plastic molders. Years of experience in design, mold making, choice of materials and finishing mean sound, economical production from start to completion. MACK engineers are available for consultation. They will recommend the one best design and the most efficient method of producing your finished plastic product or component part. Estimates will be made without obligation; call or write, today.

CRANES AND HOISTS

Bringing new life to the science of lifting materials, Provincial Engineering designs and builds cranes up to 450 tons capacity. Every major industry uses Provincial Cranes.

TRANSMISSION TOWERS

Provincial service on Transmission Towers covers all phases ... design, detail, fabrication and erection, including conductor stringing. The new Provincial Transmission Tower plant offers great advantage to Public Utilities.

With a new plant laid out and equipped especially for manufacture of Transmission Towers on a production line basis, Provincial Engineering is able to offer quick delivery, consistently lowered costs and new galvanizing techniques that virtually eliminate faulty material.

Integrated with these improved manufacturing methods is an Engineering staff able to take advantage of all the quality control and cost-cutting equipment available.

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL CONTRACTORS

Provincial Engineering maintains a staff of over 2000 men, each individually skilled in his own particular trade. These men work as a team to provide an inclusive installation service for every kind of industry. One overall direction, one centralised head make possible tight schedules, lower costs, swifter work.

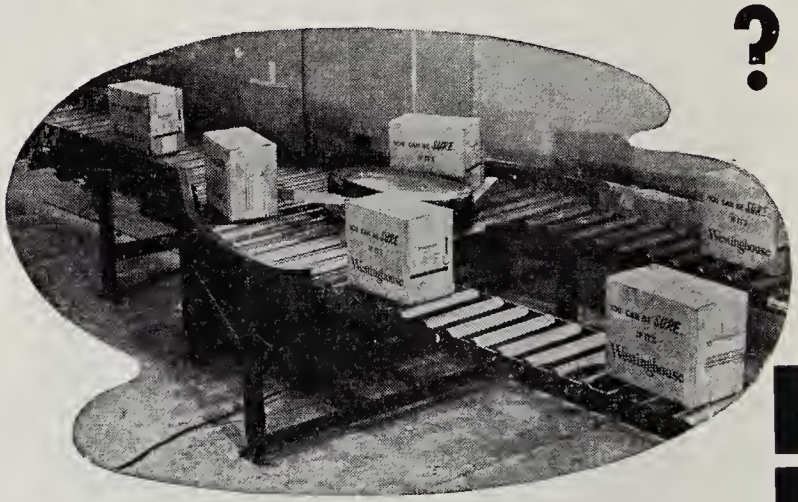
"The FINEST CONVEYOR we have ever used... More rugged, therefore smoother operating—"

Says Mr. Donald Faller of Samsonite of Canada Ltd., Stratford, Ont.

This Rolmaster conveyor is a flat bed PowerPact belt 162½ ft. long—just a part of 3500 ft. of gravity and 500 ft. of Rolmaster Conveyors in Samsonite's new Canadian plant. They find Rolmaster the finest conveyors because of exclusive features such as: All main rolls have sealed-for-life bearings; Easily adjusted and accessible belt take-up arrangement; Precision manufactured (micrometer check to .001" tolerance) ribbed roll keeps belt in perfect alignment.

A. & C. Boehmer Ltd.

SAVE SPACE LABOUR MONEY



with this ingenious

Rolmaster

INSTALLATION

This well-known Kitchener box-making firm wanted the convenience and economy of a floor-to-floor conveyor WITHOUT any sacrifice of floor space. The pictures above show how Rolmaster solved the problem: (A) shipping-receiving shed at ground level with boxes on the way up (or down); (B) external sloping shaft enclosing the conveyor; (C) 3rd floor gravity conveyor with boxes coming around curve from shaft. There is a similar installation at the 2nd floor. Result: ...Rolmaster labour-and-money-saving convenience with NO sacrifice of floor space.

Welding and Cutting Apparatus

HAND APPARATUS for oxy-acetylene applications includes welding and heating blowpipes, cutting blowpipes, nozzles, and equipment for descaling and flame-priming. OXWELD Apparatus is supplied from LINDE offices and warehouses. PUROX Welding and Cutting Equipment and PREST-O-LITE Air-Acetylene Appliances for soldering and brazing are available from industrial and automotive jobbers.

MACHINE APPARATUS—OXWELD Apparatus for mechanized use includes stationary and portable oxy-acetylene cutting machines, flame-hardening apparatus, bar and billet cut-off machines, automatic welding equipment, and tractor units for plate-edge preparation.

UNIONMELT Welding is a submerged arc process for high-quality electric welding at high speed of any thickness of commercially-used steel, without flash, glare, or sparks. UNIONMELT Welding equipment and supplies are available from LINDE.

GENERATORS and MANIFOLDS — OXWELD Acetylene Generators, stationary or portable, produce 30 to 9000 cu. ft. of acetylene per hour at low cost. OXWELD Oxygen and Acetylene Manifolds are used for centralizing a supply from cylinders.

WELDING RODS and SUPPLIES — OXWELD Welding Rods and Fluxes are of highest quality. So are OXWELD gloves, goggles, lighters, hose and fittings, and asbestos paper. All are available from LINDE or from automotive and industrial jobbers.

HELIARC Welding Apparatus makes clean, smooth welds electrically without flux, in practically all commercial metals at high speed. HELIARC Cutting Apparatus is fast, flexible, and versatile. LINDE supplies equipment and inert shielding gas for both types of apparatus.

SIGMA WELDING—A superfast, shielded inert gas metal arc method for production electric welding of aluminum, stainless steel, and other metals. LINDE supplies equipment, consumable electrodes, and inert gases for Sigma welding.

UNIONARC WELDING — LINDE'S newest development in manual electric welding, using a magnetic flux with gas shielded arc. UNIONARC Welding is extremely fast and economical; can be handled in all positions—vertical, overhead, downhand.

ARC WELDING SUPPLIES—To handle all your electric welding requirements. Linde offers a complete line of mild steel, stainless steel, hard-surfacing arc welding electrodes, helmets, holders, cables and cable connections.

OXYGEN . . . ACETYLENE . . . CALCIUM CARBIDE—LINDE Oxygen, PREST-O-LITE Acetylene, and UNION Calcium Carbide are widely distributed from LINDE plants and warehouses when, where, and in the quantities wanted.

Engineering Ingenuity

The Canadian beaver shows engineering ingenuity of a high order. With his paws, his sharp teeth and his tail he builds dams to ensure a water depth of about three feet, which serves to contain and protect his house.

To overcome some of the many problems we at Runnymede Steel have faced in the building of bridges and in the erection of steel structures for office, factory and apartment buildings, we had to use every bit of engineering ingenuity at our command. That's quite a bit. It represents forty years of steel construction on big and small jobs, on challenging jobs and run-of-the-mill jobs.

And, like the beaver, we often have to race against and beat a deadline.

If it's steel you need, call Runnymede

Let us prove that to you by giving us the opportunity to quote on your next project.

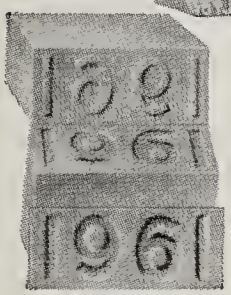
METAL MARKING TOOLS

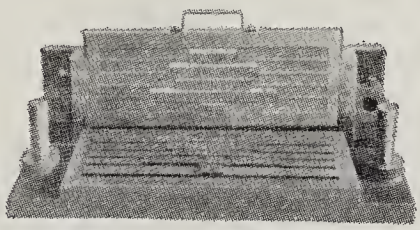


STEEL HAND STAMPS

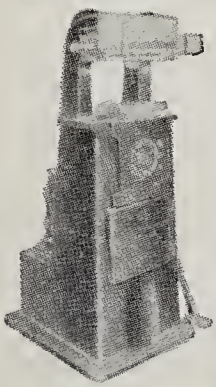
Used for marking of all types of products, whether surface is round, flat, curved or convex—with trade marks, names, numbers and other important data.

INTERCHANGEABLE STEEL TYPE

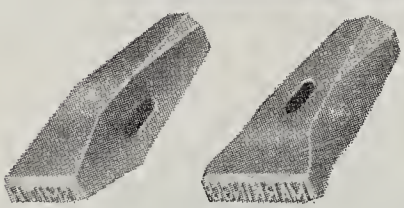
Most economical—most flexible! Steel type holders are ruggedly and compactly constructed. Interchangeable steel type is accurately finished, hardened steel, for light or medium duty marking.



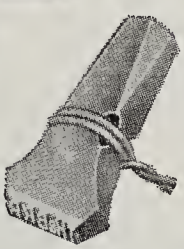
ROLL DIES



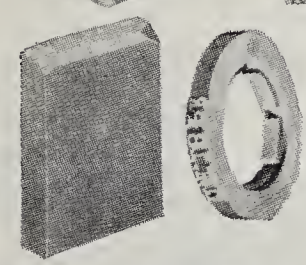
The use of engraved roll dies is the standard method for production marking of machine parts, hardware, cutlery, etc. Particularly legible marking is secured.

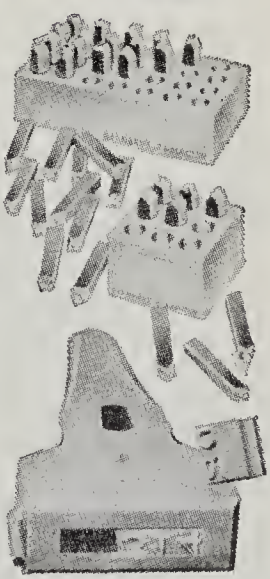


EMBOSSING DIES

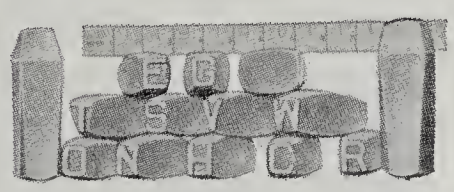


Raised or sunk lettering or designs accurately reproduced. Indestructible lettering and trade marks reproduced on metal drums and parts.





POWER MARKING MACHINES



Self contained heavy duty marking machines with smooth cushioned hydraulic pressure eliminate contact shock with marking tools thus insuring tool life. From the problems of specialized marking to the most routine of marking operations, this is a machine to help you "make your mark".

BEARIUM METAL . . .

NOW AVAILABLE IN CANADA

Non-Seizing and Non-Scoring . . . Lang Life . . . High Campressive Strength . . . Self-Lubricating . . . Low Caefficient of Frictian . . . Resistant to Shack Laads . . . Saund, Unifarm Structure . . . Free-Cutting.

Available in rough cast bars, individual castings and completely machined parts

YOUR BEST BUY IN BEARING BRONZE

Even where water must be used as the only lubricant, BEARIUM METAL does not seize ar score the shaft. The reason is that BEARIUM METAL, because of its superior frictional praperties, is self-lubricating. Secret of its amazing performance is due to the uniform distribution of microscopic particles within the capper-tin grains rather than between the grain boundaries as found in ordinary branzes. So, if you have a bearing requirement which calls for dependable, trouble-free performance—then BEARIUM METAL is your best buy in bearing bronze.

D Quality

If forgings are a component, your product can be better, stronger, safer, because of the big extras in Dominion's forgings

Lower manufacturing costs, a superior product, little if any need for field service and repairs are what you expect—and get! —when one or more of your product's components are forged.

Something else on which you can count is a better, stronger, safer product if your forgings are from Dominion Forge Limited, one of North America's great forges.

While Dominion's forging and auxiliary facilities cannot be matched for versatility by any other commercial forge on the continent, that's simply a guarantee of service. Dominion's insistence on a standard of quality unsurpassed in its industry is what assures a consistency of quality that is equally unsurpassed. It's a big extra. A big extra that adds up to a better, stronger, safer product. A big extra that costs you nothing extra!

FREE! Handy informative guide. Dominion Forge's DATA BOOK ON FORGINGS, packed with useful facts, illustrates and describes Dominion's unique facilities. Write for your free copy.

Bring Us Your HEAT TREATING PROBLEMS

Large Furnaces for Continuous Malleable Annealing

Over a period of 47 years our engineers have been part and parcel of the phenomenal strides made in heat treating techniques. They have been designing equipment to keep a step ahead of the ever-changing needs of Canadian industry — adopting new ideas and materials — devising improved variations of previous furnaces and accessories — all to the end of giving Walker customers complete assurance of satisfactory products and lasting economy.

We are particularly well qualified to determine what will fit your requirements exactly. Complete information on request.

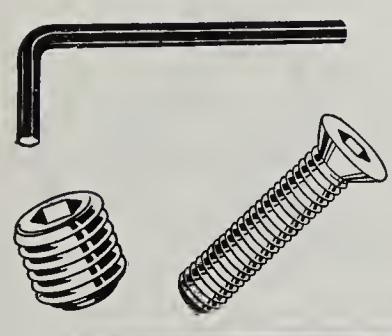
STANDARD SCREW PRODUCTS
Supplied From Stock

Cap screws, set screws, S.F. nuts . . . these in their untold thousands make up the products that are termed "Standard" in our industry. Wherever your specifications call for fasteners, check the Acme catalogue for complete data. Chances are, that an Acme Standard will fill the bill economically and satisfactorily.



SPECIAL SCREW PRODUCTS
In Quantities to Order

Perhaps it's a non-standard item . . . or a tiny fastener that hasn't been designed or machined to exact dimensions. Then again, it might be that a complete modification of a sub-assembly is required. At any rate, investigation will reveal the trouble and Acme's Screw Product Division can help you solve it to your satisfaction.

ALLEN HEX-SOCKET CAP AND SET SCREWS AND KEYS

Allen Hex-Socket Cap and Set Screws are in constant demand because of their rugged, wear-resisting strength. Also available from stock are Allen Dowel Pins, Shoulder Screws and Key and Screw Assortments.

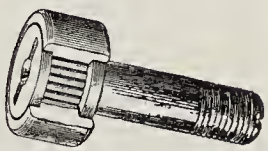
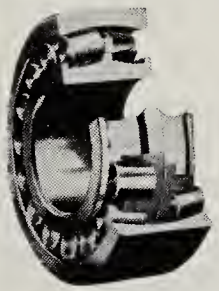
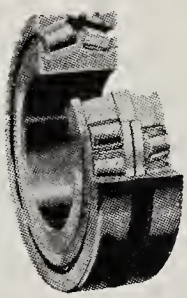
One of these Torrington Bearings may solve a design problem for you...



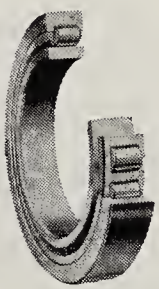
Type DC Needle Bearing is suitable for applications where size, weight and cost must be held to a minimum.



Type NBC Needle Bearing is designed for aircraft applications to be used in conjunction with standard AN bolts.



Type PN (Double Row) Needle Bearing meets all aircraft pulley requirements for primary control applications.



Type CR Needle Bearing is designed for cam follower service and rolling loads, where outer race is not supported by housing.

Self-Aligning Spherical Roller Bearing is designed for heavy-duty applications to meet conditions of misalignment.

Double Row Tapered Roller Bearing carries heavy radial and thrust loads where maximum stability is required.

Single Row Straight Roller Bearing is adaptable for high radial loads where simplicity of design, assembly and maintenance are important.

Type HD Needle Bearing is particularly suitable for severe load applications and the most exacting service conditions.

It may not have occurred to you that there are so many different types of Torrington Bearings—or that the completeness of the line of these modern, anti-friction bearings makes them adaptable to many design requirements.

Pictured above are eight different types—and there are others, all different in design, to assure you a wide choice to meet any specific requirement. Each is engineered for a particular task—or combination of design requirements. Individually each offers the same characteristic advantages of unit design, anti-friction operation, high capacity, efficient lubrication, simple installation and maintenance.

The result is that in almost any application where Torrington Bearings are employed the design problem is simplified; operating efficiency and service life are increased; manufacturing costs are reduced; and sales features are added.

Investigate for yourself how the advantages of Torrington's complete line of anti-friction bearings can be of assistance in your product planning. Full information is available on request, and our engineering staff is ready to help you with any design requirement.

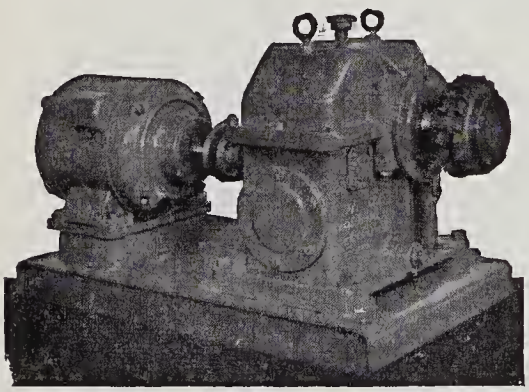
Speed Reducers

Used wherever High Speed Power is applied to Low Speed Use



Worm gear and helical gear units, in single and multiple reduction, are made in a wide range of sizes. Send for catalogue on either of these types, listing standard sizes, with power capacities and detail specifications. These are high grade, heavy duty gear drives, designed and rated for 24-hour continuous service. Ratios are available up to six thousand to one in simple, efficient, self-contained units.

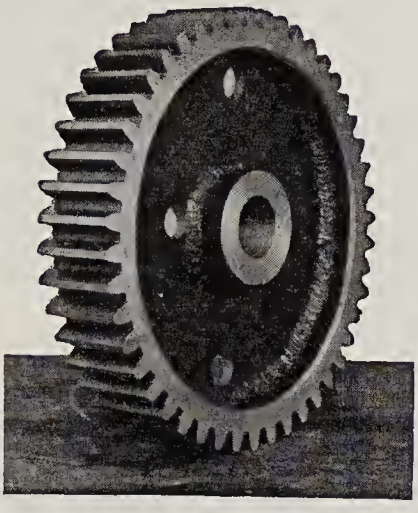
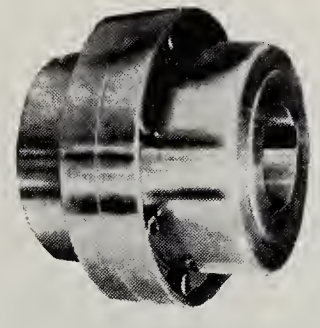
Silent Chain Drives



The Compensating Joint

The Hamilton-Ramsey silent chain (made in Canada) will operate at higher speeds, and run smoother and with less wear than any competing chain because of the compensating rolling cam action in the patented Ramsey joint. Supplied in 3/8" to 1-1/2" pitch.

Industrial Cut Gears



for Every Use
and of Any Material

CAPACITIES :—

Spur Gears up to	205 ins.
Internal Gears to	84 ins.
Bevel Gears up to	62 ins.
Worm Wheels to	205 ins.
Helical, Spiral or Herringbone	205 ins.
Closed Apex Herringbone	48 ins.
Hardened Steel Gears up to	69 ins.
Racks up to length of	45 ft.

ROLDWELD Steel Spur Gears

This electric-welded steel gear has a .45% C. forging-quality rim. It is long wearing and practically unbreakable. The cost is less than a steel casting, the strength is greater, and delivery can be made in a quarter of the time. See photo above.

Hamilgear Couplings

A full line of standard flexible couplings for both high speed and slow speed, the former illustrated here, are carried in stock. Larger sizes to order. We also stock small power flexible couplings down to fractional h.p. ratings. Send for couplings catalogue.

Visitors are always welcome at our plant.

USE LIGHT WEIGHT MAGNESIUM CASTINGS

LIGHT METAL CASTINGS save pounds and production dollars at the same time . . . they are strong, they are light and can be cast to such close tolerances that much costly machining is eliminated.

It takes experience and know how to produce high quality light weight castings.
Our experience has been gathered through many hundreds of successful applications.

TECALEMIT automatic lubricating systems for efficient lubrication of industrial machinery

- Mechanical oil and grease pumps
- Central lubricating systems

Tecalemit lubricating systems, installed on all types of industrial power and manufacturing equipment, reduce maintenance to an absolute minimum . . . eliminate breakdowns due to faulty lubrication.

Tecalemit systems supply machine bearings and friction areas with regular shots of grease or oil, in pre-determined quantities and under pressure. Tecalemit lubrication is accurate, metered lubrication . . . the key to increased, maintained production.

- Also a complete range of grease guns and fittings.

What is KELLY'S Directory of Merchants Manufacturers and Shippers ?

IT IS A WORK OF "REFERENCE" which has been known the WORLD OVER for nearly three-quarters of a Century: the firm of KELLY'S itself was founded in the year 1799.

IT IS A BOOK OF OVER 3,500 PAGES which lists and classifies more than 800 THOUSAND FIRMS in as many as 125 COUNTRIES who manufacture, export, import or perform essential services for INTERNATIONAL TRADE. The unique GENERAL INDEX contains over ELEVEN THOUSAND different trade classifications.

IT IS A "WORKING TOOL" in constant use by:

- ★ Head Buyers for large COMBINES, RAILWAYS, SHIPPING LINES, AIR LINES, PUBLIC UTILITIES, DEPARTMENT STORES, NATIONALIZED INDUSTRIES, OVERSEAS TRADING COMPANIES, GROUPS OF IMPORTERS, etc.
- ★ Sales Managers of Firms great and small who MANUFACTURE or PRODUCE FOR EXPORT, as well as
- ★ Specialists and single INDEPENDENT TRADERS on the look out for precisely ONE PARTICULAR PRODUCT or article.

IT IS AT WORK EVERYWHERE ALL THE TIME. Trading possibilities throughout the World are always changing. TO-DAY certain countries may be of little interest but conditions can change OVERNIGHT through greater liberalization of trade or by a sudden grant of import permissions. KELLY'S will then provide AT ONCE the information needed whereby advantages can be taken of these opportunities.

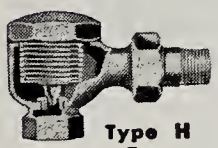
SARCO STEAM TRAPS

Only Sarco makes 5 distinctly different types of traps—can give you impartial trapping recommendations. For best trapping results, fit the trap to the requirements of the job.

Sarco Balanced Pressure Thermostatic Traps. Greatest capacity per dollar cost. Large air venting capacity. Same head and seat, 0-300 psi. Freeze-proof. Size 3/8" to 2", for pressures to 300 psi. Catalog 250-A.



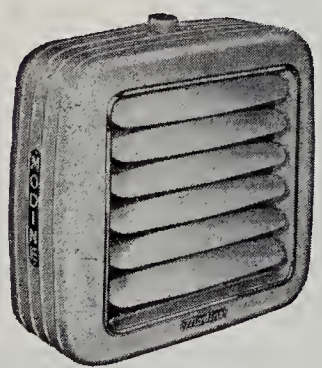
Sarco Camlift Bucket Traps. New, powerful Camlift valve mechanism permits greater discharge with no increase in size of trap body. Sizes 1/2" to 2", for pressures to 900 psi. Catalog 360-A.

Sarco Float-Thermostatic Traps. Discharges condensate continuously at steam temperature and without shock. Responds immediately to varying loads and pressures. Sizes 3/4" to 2 1/2", for pressures to 200 psi. Catalog 450-A.

Sarco Thermodynamic Traps. Valve head, a solid stn. st. disc, is only moving part. Same head and seat to 600 psi. Not affected by super-heat, water-hammer, corrosive condensate. Sizes 3/8", 1/2", 3/4", and 1", for pressures to 600 psi. Catalog 255-A.

Sarco Liquid Expansion Thermostatic Traps. Adjustable to discharge condensate below 212°F. Freeze-proof. Not affected by water-hammer or pressure pulsations. Sizes 1/2" to 2", for pressures to 350 psi. Catalog 260-A.

SARCO Heating Specialties



Type H Radiator Trap

Sarco Radiator Traps and Valves for maximum heating efficiency and long trouble-free service. Complete line of specialties includes air eliminators, boiler return traps and balancing fittings. Catalog 150-A.

SARCO Strainers

Protects trap and valve mechanisms from damage by dirt or scale in pipe lines. For all commercial pressures and fluids. Sizes 1/4" to 10". Catalog 1200-A.

SARCO Temperature Controllers

A complete line of Self-Powered Controllers for water heaters, converters, and all types of process work. Simple, reliable, inexpensive. Sizes 1/2" to 8", temperature ranges between 0° and 300°F. Catalog 600-A.

Sarco Electric Indicating Temperature Controllers for controlling electric heating elements, steam, water, oil, brine, gas, air and other heating or cooling operations where continuous indication of controlled temperature is required. Temperatures minus 90° to plus 650°F. Catalog 1025.

TR-21 Controller

MODINE UNIT HEATERS

A complete line for horizontal or vertical air delivery as well as a power-throw type.

Discharge air temperatures of 110° to 120°F are correctly related to air velocities for perfect heating comfort with lower fuel costs. Safe and economical direct-from-pipe suspension.

Compare and you will agree that Modine is tops in unit heater values. Write for Catalog No. 155.

THE SHAPE OF THINGS TO COME . . . MOULDED BY CHEMICAL RESEARCH

Many of the exciting things which will make the world of tomorrow a better and an easier place to live in are dependent upon the tireless efforts of today's chemical researchers.

At Shawinigan, teams of skilled specialists are constantly at work developing chemical products, solving processing problems and finding new and improved uses for chemicals from Shawinigan. The results of their labour is reflected in virtually every sphere of our daily living — in industry and in the home.

In the future, as in the past, wherever chemical research can help to create better things for better living — Shawinigan will be there.

THE BEST INDUSTRIAL FASTENER FOR THE MONEY

FEATURES FOR FASTER PRODUCTION

EATON-RELIANCE SPRINGTITES®

Eaton-Reliance Springtites and Sems* are made to satisfy the needs of modern, high speed production in almost every field of metal fabricating. From design to final use, these fast fasteners offer features required by design and industrial engineers to make better, longer lasting products. With quality cold drawn steel as a foundation, Eaton-Reliance Springtites and Sems are headed and threaded on precision machines; the spring washer is added as a permanent part of the fastener and all work is inspected with a critical eye toward perfect performance under the most trying conditions. Products fastened with Eaton-Reliance industrial fasteners stay "factory tight" longer. Send for Engineering Bulletin S-49, or for threadcutting Springtites and Sems in Types 1-23-25, send for Engineering Bulletin S-49-A.

 With multi-tooth washer*

31,000 SQUARE MILES OF INDUSTRIAL OPPORTUNITY IN CANADA

The Shawinigan territory—31,000 square miles in the Province of Quebec—extends from the Laurentian Mountains to the United States border and straddles the mighty St. Lawrence River for a distance of 300 miles.

The Shawinigan territory offers every requisite for successful industrial operations:

- Abundant raw materials
- Low cost hydro-electric power
- A stable working force
- The best in modern highways, railways, airways—plus the great new St. Lawrence seaway. Here you can trade with the world at large.

For these reasons the Shawinigan territory is one of the fastest growing industrial areas on the North American continent.

For further information regarding this favoured territory, write to: Industrial Development Department, The Shawinigan Water and Power Company, P.O. Box 6072, Montreal, Quebec, Canada.

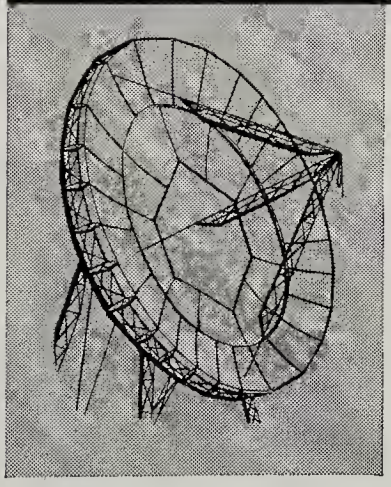
First in 1901
Signor Marconi received the first wireless signal ever transmitted across the Atlantic Ocean, from Cornwall, England, to St. John's, Newfoundland. The Company, incorporated under a Dominion charter, became the pioneer electronics firm in North America.



First in 1919
Radio broadcasting first came to Canada via Marconi's Montreal Station XWA, now CFCF.

First in 1921
Canadian Marconi developed the first radio receivers to be made in Canada.

First in 1937
Canadian Marconi produced the first mobile radiophone equipment designed and developed in Canada — for public utilities, police cars, and later for taxis.

First in 1948
Canada's first commercial marine radar was developed by Marconi in co-operation with the National Research Council.

CANADIAN MARCONI — First with the Finest in Communications

First with the widest range of Radio Relay
The only Canadian electronics firm engaged in the research design and development of microwave, radio relay and "scatter" equipments, Canadian Marconi has become one of the leading suppliers with several hundreds of units delivered and installed. With a range of communications equipment amongst the widest in the world, the Company is rapidly becoming the leading Canadian exporter of communications equipment.

Whatever your communication needs — mobile radio or radar, conventional microwave or "over-the-horizon" forward scatter systems, marine or aviation electronic equipment—it pays to look first to Canadian Marconi. In solid experience, in creative research, in engineering skill, Marconi continues to be first with the finest in Canadian communications.

NOVA SCOTIA

SITE OF INDUSTRIAL OPPORTUNITY!

Nova Scotia offers new industries many advantages that are unequalled anywhere. The Government of this Province is resolved to go all out in providing aid and inducements to manufacturers desiring plant locations in Nova Scotia.

PLANT SITES

A wide choice of locations suitable for either light or heavy industry, located where labor and required raw materials are most readily available.

LABOUR

Abundant personnel, male or female, eager to practise present skills or learn new ones—stable and intelligent.

RAW MATERIALS

Excellent resources in minerals, fuels, forest products, arable land, fishing grounds. etc., with great reserves untapped.

TRANSPORTATION

Easy access to world-wide, inter-and intra-provincial facilities by sea, air and land. Excellent year-round highways system —most deep-sea ports ice-free and accessible in all weather.

POWER

Plenty of electrical power available throughout the Province. The growth requirements for industry are being adequately met, and the long range expansion program will take care of all future needs.

TAXES

Through tax concessions and other incentives, the Government of Nova Scotia is going "all out" to establish new industries in this Province. Your inquiry will receive careful, confidential attention.

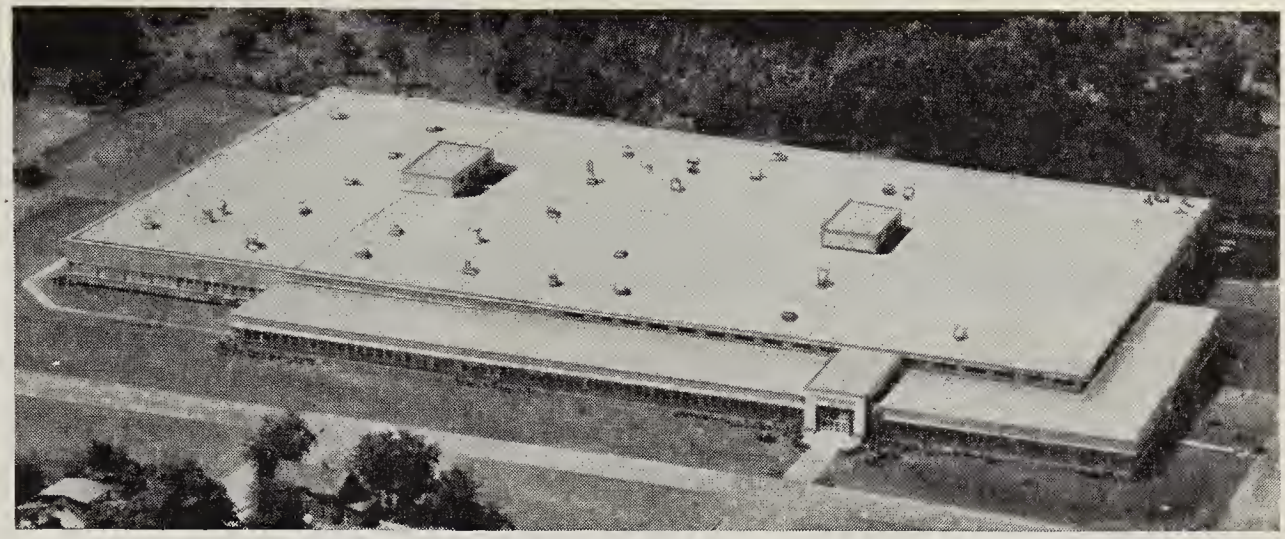
ALBERTA

THE KEY TO CANADA'S NORTHWEST

The development and the future of Canada's great Northwest is of vital interest to the Government of Alberta.

Progressive planning and foresight in Alberta have made this province the source of key services to the North.



The North needs Alberta where railways, highways and airlines combine to provide modern facilities and services long recognized as the basic essential of Northern development.

Alberta's expansion during the past decade has resulted in increased population and countless increased manufactured goods and services. The increase has resulted in greater distribution of both means and manpower for the mines and mills of the North. No greater source of power is available to assist in Northern development, than the present enormous supply of Alberta's energy resources.

Alberta will continue to play a major role in Northern development. The Government of Alberta through comprehensive legislation and administration will assist in every way possible in further expansion. The Government of Alberta looks to the North with full confidence in its future.

Foreword to EXPORT SECTION

By HON. GORDON CHURCHILL, M.P.

Minister of Trade & Commerce

BECAUSE a healthy export trade is vital to Canada's domestic prosperity, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association has always encouraged its member firms to consider exporting seriously wherever practicable.

Evidence that its continuing efforts have met with success is contained in the pages of the Canadian Trade Index, where a high proportion of the firms listed are shown as interested in export trade.

It is appropriate, then, that the Index should include an Export Section. The contents of this portion of the volume provide a brief summary of the value of export trade, a description of methods and practices of foreign trading, and a recapitulation of the services available to Canadian companies that export or want to export.

The Export Section, therefore, provides another opportunity for the Canadian Department of Trade and Commerce to remind businessmen of its interest in promoting export trade and to assure them of its readiness to assist in their export activities.

In the final analysis, of course, the carrying out of export trade is a matter for the individual company itself — and is peculiarly dependent upon competitive pricing, comparative quality, reliable delivery and, not least, earnestness of effort.

To all companies able to meet these conditions of export, I commend the careful reading of this Export Section and pledge the help of the federal government services.

THE VALUE OF EXPORT TRADE

TO THE Canadian manufacturer whose market in Canada is too small to support an economic level of production volume, the export market is an essential part of his overall operation. But to others not immediately faced with this problem it presents attractions which are worthy of the most careful consideration. To the enterprising seller it offers the potential of almost limitless growth, and, as a means of insurance against market instability, it holds the key to a vital element of insurance—the widest possible spread of risk.

In many cases production for export can be realized with little or no increase in overhead, thus lowering unit cost for home as well as export markets. Production can be scheduled on a fairly even keel, despite seasonal variations in the Canadian market, when you are exporting.

A network of properly serviced export outlets can be counted upon to act as a counterbalance in time of weakness in any one market, whether or not it be the domestic market. The Canadian market has been growing by leaps and bounds but, even so, it is subject to external influences and to fluctuations, and will continue to be so both seasonally and over longer periods. Even a strong, expanding home market reaches levelling-off points when expanding production tends to exceed what the market can absorb. By exporting, the manufacturer insures himself against the vagaries of a single market and creates a more even demand for his products. But, as with all insurance, the policy must be in force before the trouble arises.

The post-war rash of currency difficulties, import quotas and other restrictions has tended to create the impression that export business is only for the established specialists and that, as a source of new business it is not worth the bother. Even though the mechanics of exporting may be more complicated than in other days, and though many of our traditional customers are restricted in their dollar purchases, there is lucrative and growing business to be done in many parts of the world including, for many types of products, those countries which are subject to chronic dollar shortages. This outline presents an elementary guide to the techniques of export and to the vast fund of service and assistance which is available for the asking.

IMPORTANT POINTS FOR SUCCESSFUL EXPORTING

1. Make long-term export plans.
2. Make the right products which the export markets want.
3. Use the correct export costing system and prices to the customers which enable them to figure out easily how much the goods will cost them.
4. Offer reasonable credit terms.
5. Get people who have the "know-how" on export and know languages.
6. Visit customers through regular trips overseas, and do not attempt to organize exports from the desk in the home office.
7. Support these travels by multi-language sales promotional literature, by advertising, and by exhibiting at local Trade Fairs, etc.
8. Use the right psychological approach and try to establish more personal and humanized relationships with overseas customers.
9. Avoid high-pressure sales tactics or any artificial enthusiasm.

THE "HOW TO" OF EXPORT TRADE

A SUCCESSFUL venture into the export field involves much more than simply an extension of domestic sales activity. Each market has its own peculiarities of tastes, customs and business methods, and the general practice of export has its own specialized techniques. A full understanding of these matters, and an appreciation of the problems faced by the overseas customer in being so far removed from his source of supply, is vital.

A brief outline of some of the principles and methods to be employed is given in the following sections. Expert assistance in his problems is available to the exporter at every stage, and later chapters are devoted to the export services of the Department of Trade and Commerce and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. This material is not intended as a comprehensive manual of export practice but its purpose is to indicate broadly some of the matters to which the exporter or prospective exporter should give his attention.

EXPORT SALES CHANNELS

Methods of conducting an export business vary from setting up of branch plants abroad to developing export trade direct by mail. In general, Canadian exporters seem to prefer to establish resident agents or representatives.

The properly selected resident agent is well established in the country, knows the language and the tastes of the people and also knows the best advertising and selling methods. He has an established clientele and up-to-date mailing lists. He can keep the company informed of business trends, of competition, of the credit rating and standing of customers in the country, and can suggest improvements or adaptations of the product to suit the needs of the market. If necessary he can act in collecting unpaid bills and can expedite the shipment of goods or withhold delivery until payment is made. He can investigate orders and enquiries and take immediate action. Being eonstantly on the ground, he is able to take immediate advantage of every opportunity the moment it arises, and to adjust troubles and complaints that may arise in the conduct of the business. Furthermore, an agent can safeguard payment and collection of extended and disputed drafts.

When choosing an agent a careful check should naturally be made of his standing in the community, his financial responsibility, his integrity, business capabilities and the number and kind of lines he is already carrying. Financial responsibility will be vitally important if the agent is to buy directly and sell on his own account, rather than acting purely on a commission basis, where orders are passed to the Canadian manufacturer for direct shipment to the customer. To some extent the products will be judged on the reputation of the agent himself and on his business practices and capabilities. His judgment in the assessment of credit risks can determine the success of the whole venture.

It is important, as well, to know the number and kind of other lines carried by the agent, to ascertain whether they are complementary or competitive. For example, it may be that a prospective agent is already carrying too many lines and in all probability he will push those lines which are easiest and most remunerative to sell, with the result that the added new lines may suffer in comparison with the other ones.

All this sort of information is obtained and checked by the Canadian Trade Commissioners, who are always willing to advise in the selection of agents. A request for their assistance should be accompanied by full details of the products to be handled.

The decision to appoint as agent an individual or a company will depend to a great extent on the nature of the commodity to be exported, the distribution desired, and the extent of the market. In some countries it may be advisable to choose a large company which is in touch with all wholesale outlets. While this may mean giving exclusive rights to certain wholesalers, it has compensation in that credit risk is reduced to a few outlets, and in some cases goods are paid for upon receipt. Traditional buying habits of medium and smaller outlets may suggest appointment of one large company as agent and sole importer, and this is especially advisable in most Far Eastern markets. Should it be the policy of the exporter to place his goods through as many outlets as possible, then the individual commission representative provides the best medium because he simply solicits orders for the manufacturer. The greatest advantage lies in the ability of such a man to get business for his principals from all possible importers in his field.

Conducting export business through a resident agent is flexible and allows for expansion. It becomes doubly effective if an executive of the Canadian exporting house can visit the agent from time to time. It is also extremely helpful if the agent can be brought to Canada and made thoroughly familiar with the products to be handled—following them through the various stages of manufacture, packaging and shipment. In this manner he will also have the opportunity to meet personnel of the company and the company will have an opportunity to know the agent. Personal contact is much more effective than dealing by correspondence, and it might be emphasized that there is no complete substitute for personal visits to the export markets or prospective markets by a responsible executive of the exporting firm.

Credit Information

Canadian manufacturers may be hesitant to enter the export field because they fear the credit risks involved. On the whole, these risks are no greater in the export field than for the home market. Information regarding the credit rating of foreign firms can usually be obtained through Canadian banks or through the Trade Commissioner Service. The Export Credits Insurance Corporation stands ready to insure exporters against losses occurring through no fault of the seller or buyer which are not covered by ordinary commercial forms of insurance on the export of goods.

Trade Commissioners can also supply confidential information on the credit status of foreign companies and can furnish confidential reports on the activities of overseas firms already acting on behalf of Canadian business houses.

FINANCING EXPORT TRADE

This chapter, prepared by C. K. Highmoor, former Assistant General Manager, The Canadian Bank of Commerce, Head Office, Toronto, (now retired), outlines the services available through Canadian Banks in connection with export business.

EVERY experienced Canadian exporter will agree that the sale of Canadian goods or services to a country outside Canada is not completed satisfactorily until the full amount of the anticipated proceeds have been placed at his disposal in Canada and in such form that without any encumbrance they can be used in Canada to pay for the wages, materials and other expenses which went into the creation of the goods or services sold. It takes time, effort and materials to produce goods which will compete in other lands with the products of other countries and no matter what care is taken in the preparation of the goods, in their prompt and safe delivery, and in following through to see that the goods are satisfactory to the eventual user, the benefit to the producer and to Canada is likely to be lost if similar care is not taken in the manner in which the proceeds are collected from abroad.

All Canadian banks operate International or Foreign Departments designed to facilitate transactions with other countries, whether these involve payments abroad or collections abroad, and exporters, particularly those expanding their activities into new fields abroad, should avail themselves of the services of their banks in guarding against errors and oversights which can be made in this important matter of obtaining payment in satisfactory form from purchasers of their products, whether in near or distant lands.

Price Quotations

Exporters from Canada seeking buyers abroad are free to express their prices in any form or in any currency which they may desire or find convenient, though naturally they must take into account also the convenience of the buyer. The currency in which they collect the proceeds is no longer a matter in which they are restricted by exchange control regulations in Canada and the principal consideration in the choice is whether the currency tendered is freely convertible in world markets to Canadian dollars or freely transferable in foreign currency to Canadian account. The position with respect to convertibility and transferability is subject to change but is followed closely and always known by all Canadian banks.

See Index of Subjects Page 241

Risks of Fluctuation in Exchange Rates

The value in terms of Canadian dollars of all foreign currencies is subject to exchange fluctuations even under Control conditions as no one, not even Governments, can guarantee that current rates of exchange will remain unchanged over any stated period. To some extent these risks can be eliminated both under Control and open market conditions, by means of forward contracts. Canadians buying and selling goods abroad can enter into forward contracts with their banks for reasonable periods ahead and this is well worth considering particularly when they have a firm contract with a buyer or seller abroad. When a forward contract is entered into to deliver or take delivery of a stated amount of foreign exchange, the exchange risk is eliminated but such contracts must be completed at maturity and for the amount contracted regardless of the market rates then prevailing.

Clarity of Contracts

It is most desirable that a commercial contract entered into between seller and buyer shall be clear beyond doubt as to the expense included in the selling price and as to the currency and manner in which the transfer of money from abroad to Canada shall take place. Apart from the sales cost of the goods at the point of production in Canada, there are of course other costs, such as rail and ocean freight, marine and war risk insurance, export license fees, possible storage, transshipment, inspection, wharfage, forwarding, and other similar costs with which every exporter is familiar, but also financing costs such as collection fees, interest, bill stamp duties, and sometimes other costs such as telegraphic fees, protest fees, consular fees, etc., which can be important and should not be overlooked.

It is possible for many of these to be foreseen, avoided, overcome, or at least provided for, at the time the contract is entered into, or in advance to last over a long period of time in the prospective dealings with an overseas buyer. In these latter respects Canadian banks can be most helpful and should be freely consulted.

Financial Standing of Buyer Abroad

It is obviously important for the seller of Canadian goods to know something of the standing of buyers abroad not only from the point of view of moral reputation but also from a financial point of view and before considering the completion of any contract with strangers abroad it is desirable that enquiries should be made to that end. The Canadian banks, Government departments, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Export Credits Insurance Corporation, and other organizations have considerable information on the standing of firms abroad and can always assist in this respect even if enquiries have to be made abroad by mail or by wire. Upon this information depends to no little extent the choice of methods by which payment is to be sought and which in turn requires thought as to the extension of any credit which is to be granted. This in turn depends on the seller's own financial ability to wait, the financial ability of the buyer to pay, the custom of the market into which the goods are to proceed, the Exchange Control regulations governing payment from that market, and the financial reserves of the buying country.

Methods of Payment

There are a number of methods by which payment can be received for shipments abroad and each has its appropriate place in a given set of circumstances.

The simplest, from the Canadian seller's point of view, is a remittance through banking channels at the time of acceptance of an order, in the appropriate currency, but this is a method which would be considered unreasonable by many buyers under normal conditions and one which few exporters would be able or care to require, particularly from firms of standing who would probably be unwilling to so employ their capital, having in mind that the goods may take some time to be prepared and shipped. Then again, under the Exchange Control regulations of their respective countries, buyers may be prohibited from making payment until the goods have either landed at their ports or are at least afloat.

A variation of this method is by direct remittance in the appropriate currency through banking channels when the goods have arrived, within a stated time thereafter, at time of shipment, or at some period mutually arranged between buyer and seller.

Another method is by drawing a draft on the buyers of the goods or their agents in the country of destination or elsewhere and lodging the draft for collection with a bank in Canada with or without shipping documents attached and either awaiting the returns of the collection by mail, air letter, air mail, or cable, or by borrowing thereagainst in Canada at the time the draft is lodged with the Canadian bank.

Still another method is to call for a Commercial Letter of Credit issued by the buyer's bankers and forwarded by mail to the seller or advised by cable through a bank in Canada.

The latter two methods are discussed more fully below under their respective headings.

Collections

Collections can be expressed in any currency out under present conditions are usually expressed in the currency agreed upon between buyer and seller according to his contract and as required under exchange control regulations of the buyer's country. They can call for payment on demand, at sight, or at an appropriate term, such as 30 days' sight, 60 days' sight, 90 days' sight, etc. They can be clean, i.e. not supported by any documents, or can have attached whatever shipping documents are desired.

If a company attaches a complete set of proper invoices, negotiable bills of lading, marine and war risk insurance certificates or policies for an adequate amount, and other documents required for the release of the goods in the country of destination, and these documents are endorsed where required by the seller, the collection normally controls and retains the ownership of the goods until by permission they are released or until the draft is paid.

When delivering a collection to a bank, the amount of the draft must be clearly expressed in words and figures, the name and address of the drawee must be clearly given, and the bank must understand clearly whether the collection is to go forward by ordinary mail or air mail. The bank must also be placed in a position to give appropriate instructions to its correspondent abroad and these instructions should cover points which are liable to come up when the draft gets to its destination. The following are examples of some of the instructions which might be given in varying circumstances:

Hold for arrival of goods.

Protest for non-acceptance.

Protest for non-payment.

Collect bank charges.

Waive bank charges if refused by drawee.

Collect at selling rate for demand drafts on . . . Remit proceeds by cable at our expense.

Allow drawee interest at . . . % per annum if paid before maturity.

In case of dishonour, store and insure goods at our expense, cabling promptly.

In case of need, refer to . . . who is hereby empowered to . . . and advise us immediately by air mail (cable).

In some countries it is not the practice of the Exchange Control authorities to make foreign exchange available immediately for collections. In fact, in some of them the documents now have not the same control that they once did and on occasion it is the practice to surrender them against a provisional deposit in the local currency of the country together with the drawees undertaking to assume the risk of exchange fluctuations pending the availability of the appropriate foreign exchange for remittance abroad. The drawers' instructions to the bank should include his agreement to this procedure. Other types of instructions will be needed in certain cases and these will vary with circumstances. The objective should be to see that the collecting bank abroad is not left in doubt as to the action which they should take in possible or likely eventualities.

It is possible for collections to be drawn in such a way that interest is to be collected from the drawee over and above the face amount of the draft and where this is required, it should be enfaced on the draft itself by means of an appropriate clause, such as:

'Payable with interest at the rate of . . . % from date of draft to estimated arrival of return remittance in . . .'

or

'Payable at the collecting bank's selling rate for sight drafts on Canada plus interest at the rate of . . . % from date of draft to estimated date of arrival of return remittance in Canada.'

If remittance is required by cable, the clauses would be changed appropriately. The rate of interest inserted is usually that common in the country of destination.

In many cases, if desired, collections can be discounted with Canadian banks at the time of lodgment and, when expressed in foreign exchange, the proceeds sold to or deposited with the bank. This disposes of the exchange risk if the draft is paid promptly but creates an exchange risk if the draft is dishonoured. The availability for discount of a collection payable abroad depends, of course, upon the currency in which it is drawn, the term of the draft, the documents which are attached, but to a greater extent on the financial standing of the drawer and the drawee.

Letters of Credit

Letters of Credit are extremely useful documents in financing foreign trade and the financing of a very large proportion of world trade is handled by that method. They are most adaptable and can be made to fit the requirements of almost any movement of goods under most circumstances. They vary, therefore, from country to country, from commodity to commodity, and between one method of shipment and another. While contracts in themselves, they do not constitute or replace sales contracts between buyers and sellers, but facilitate the carrying out of the latter. In all cases they carry an obligation of the issuer—in these days usually a bank —but the extent of these obligations varies from one credit to the next, and of course are no better than the standing and reputation of the issuer. It cannot, therefore, be taken for granted that every letter of credit is uniform with every other or that they remove all liability from the beneficiary.

They are at times irrevocable and at others revocable, at times carry the obligation only of the bank abroad, and sometimes carry in addition the obligation not only of the bank abroad but also of a bank in Canada or the United States. They can be opened in such a way that the seller receives payment in Canada without further recourse on him, though never remove the responsibility for the sales contract to be duly and properly fulfilled. On the other hand, they may serve only the purpose of providing prompt cash in Canada with certain rights of recourse in some circumstances.

Their establishment by a bank abroad at the request of the buyer usually involves him in some expense and in the use of his credit, thereby adding some expense to the cost of the goods, so that they cannot, in face of competition, be requested in connection with every sale. The possibility of asking for payment in the form of a letter of credit should not, however, be overlooked and, if it is considered desirable that a letter of credit should be obtained, it is advisable to be somewhat specific in describing the type of letter of credit expected.

When details are received of a letter of credit which has been opened, it is important that its terms be studied and found acceptable. If unacceptable, request for amendment should be made immediately to the buyer so that no difficulty or delay will take place when the time comes to use the letter of credit. It is important also that the terms of the letter of credit be adhered to accurately and thoroughly since all letters of credit have an expiry date, either fixed in advance or at the pleasure of the issuer, and if the drafts and documents, upon presentation to a bank in Canada, are found out of order, the credit may have expired before the documents can be amended or corrected.

Space does not permit of a full description of the types of letters of credit or of all the documents for which they may call and the manner in which they should be prepared. In general, however, these documents must describe the goods at least as well as described in the letter of credit and must be in such negotiable shape that they control fully the eventual delivery of the goods, as well as guard against loss or damage while in transit. With shipments to some countries they often call for drafts on the buyer, though it is more usual for letters of credit to provide for drafts on a particular bank, and one of their important functions is to provide access to the principal money markets of the world so that interest costs involved are on an international level.

EXPORT PRICES

This chapter is based on an address to the Export Study Club of Toronto by Richard B. Spiro, Vice-President, International Division, The Coleman Lamp & Stove Company Limited, Toronto.

AMONG the so-called three P's of Export —namely Product, Price and Promotion —under the present circumstances of reappearing keen competition, Pricing is of paramount importance. This subject embraces the principles of price calculation and also the method of quotation. The former is, of course, of prime importance in establishing prices which will be competitive in the foreign market, while still allowing an adequate return to the exporter in terms of contributing to the profit of his overall operation. The latter is concerned with the necessity for quoting in such a way that the overseas customer can readily calculate his landed cost and compare it with competitive offerings; in short, making it easy for him to buy.

Calculation of Export Prices

While export prices will necessarily bear a fairly close relationship to domestic prices, and will perhaps need adjustment in the light of prices of competitive merchandise, the theoretically correct method is to calculate prices based on the actual cost of producing, selling and shipping the goods, providing, in addition, for the coverage of general overhead expenses and an adequate net profit.

These costs may be divided into three general classifications:

(1) Direct materials and labour (at standard or normal costs applicable to the product being offered, less drawback of duties paid on imported components or raw materials).

(2) Factory overhead (which should be calculated and apportioned on the basis of the average of the plant capacity occupied in the production of goods for export).

(3) Sales and General overhead.

In every business there are many items of cost which are not especially attributable to any particular phase of the operation, but which must be covered if the business is to operate at all. In tabulating costs for export purposes, every effort should be made to eliminate those costs which do not bear any direct relation to the export operation. The examination can be made particularly searching in those businesses where export sales form only a small proportion of total sales.

The expenses of the export operation itself will include such items as: Export department salaries, travelling expenses, catalogues and promotional literature, export advertising, commissions to travellers and to representatives abroad, transportation to the agreed point of delivery (see below), packing and shipping materials and labour, legal expenses, patents and trademark fees, office supplies, postage and cables, taxes, rent, insurance, interest and exchange, provision for bad debts, etc. The tabulation of the expenses and the preparation of a budgetary Profit and Loss Statement will permit the export executive to arrive at quotations based on factory cost by indicating the percentage mark-up which must be added to factory cost to cover the expenses of the export operations and to produce the desired margin of net profit.

Fixed and Variable Costs

In the analysis of costs and expenses it will be found that certain items will be characterized as fixed charges and are independent of production or sales volume. Others vary directly and automatically with the volume of goods produced and sold, while a third variety may be described as controllable and bears a more or less direct relation to the volume of business. Examples of "fixed" charges are civic taxes, administration, rent, etc. Charges which vary in direct ratio to volume include direct labour and materials, commissions, etc. In the third category are such items as export advertising, travelling expenses, clerical costs, etc.

In a market where very keen competition is being faced, a careful examination of the relationships between these cost categories may be the means of determining whether a price can be quoted which will be competitive, or in other words, whether an export order can be obtained at all. In many organizations, export business represents only a comparatively small percentage of the total turnover and, in such cases, it may be argued that, where necessary, an export price which covers the variable and controllable export costs but disregards all or a portion of the fixed charges will still be profitable from the point of view of the overall operation. In such an organization, it may be assumed that the fixed expenses will be the same whether or not this export business is added to the domestic business. The export order, so obtained, is therefore a means of employing plant capacity, which may not otherwise be profitably engaged, and to absorb a portion, though not by domestic standards its full share, of the fixed expenses of the business.

If, however, export business represents more than, say, 15% to 20% of the total turnover, it may be clearly impossible to charge the whole of the fixed expenses of the organization against that part of the production which is sold in the domestic market, as this may price these products out of the domestic market.

Price Quotations and Foreign Trade Terms

A significant factor in the quotation of prices is the cost of transporting the goods to the point of delivery indicated in the sales contract. This point is designated by certain internationally accepted "foreign trade terms".

The foreign trade terms indicate the geographic point in the line of connection between seller and buyer up to which the seller pays all transportation and insurance costs (or in other words, includes transportation and insurance costs in his quotation) and from which point onwards the buyer pays all transportation or insurance costs (or in other words, from which point onwards the seller adds transportation and insurance costs to his quotation in case he, acting on behalf of the buyer, prepays these expenses). The foreign trade terms further define in the line of connection between seller and buyer the point of delivery, which means the point up to which the seller holds title to the goods and is therefore responsible for them as far as damages, losses, etc., are concerned and where the title then passes from the seller to the buyer, who from this point onwards is responsible for any losses or damages.

As one proceeds along this line of connection from the seller to the buyer, it will progressively become easier for the buyer to calculate his landed costs. If one quotes, for instance, "F.O.B. Factory", which is often called "ex works", then the buyer, in order to arrive at his landed costs, would not only have to figure out his import Customs Duty, the landing charges in his own port of arrival, the ocean freight and marine insurance, but he would also have to know the inland transport in the country of supply such as for instance, the cost of transporting the merchandise from Winnipeg to Montreal; it is quite clear that it would be difficult for the importer in a far away country to obtain information on the cost of inland rail transport in Canada, which, in the case of an "F.O.B. Factory" or "ex works" quotation would be necessary to permit him to figure out his landed costs. If we quote "F.A.S. Vessel" (Free Along Side) or "F.O.B. Vessel" (Free on Board Vessel) at a named Port of Sailing, then, in order to arrive at his landed costs, he would only have to know the ocean freight rate, marine insurance rate and the actual landing costs and Customs Duties which occur in his own country.

With competition becoming keener all the time and with exporters in other countries used to making it easy for their overseas customers to figure out their landed costs, it has become necessary to proceed in one's quotations along this line of connection between seller and buyer to points closer to the buyer, and to quote prices for delivery at the port of destination such as for instance: C & F (Cost and Freight, which would only leave to the buyer to figure out and pay the marine insurance premium); or: C.I.F. (which means Cost, Insurance excluding war risk insurance, and Freight); or: C.I.F. & C. (which with the last letter "C" includes also the commission which the buyer may possibly pay to a buying house or broker whom he may employ in the country of supply); or, the quotation may even be: C.I.F.C. & I. (which with the last letter "I" indicates that also bank interest, in the case of extended credit terms, is included in the quotation and will not have to be added to the quoted price by the buyer).

Foreign Trade Terms—Definitions

In an effort to define in a uniform manner certain well known terms generally used in making price quotations, there has been developed in various countries a set of rules or definitions which have been adopted by certain trade organizations and others setting out in some detail the obligations of seller and buyer attaching to the particular terms. In the United States the National Foreign Trade Council Incorporated, the National Council of American Importers Incorporated, and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America on July 30, 1941, through a joint committee, approved of what are known as "Revised American Foreign Trade Definitions—1941." These follow in general, although not in detail, the International Rules for the Interpretation of Trade Terms—generally known as "Incoterms, 1953," defined by the International Chamber of Commerce. It should be understood that the use of such rules is optional and that the approval of the particular rules referred to by designated trade bodies does not lend to them the force of law. Nevertheless, where a price quotation in accordance with these definitions and a contract of sale is concluded with a statement that the price is subject to these definitions, it would have considerable force in determining what is understood by the parties to the contract in respect to such price quotation.

While specific reference has been made to the

"Revised American Foreign Trade Definitions —1941" and to "Incoterms 1953," it is essential to bear in mind, as previously pointed out, that foreign trade definitions have been issued by organizations in various parts of the world and the courts of different countries have interpreted these definitions in different ways. To reduce the opportunities for misunderstanding to a minimum, therefore, it is fundamental that there be agreement between seller and buyer as to what is actually meant when a price quotation is made. A buyer in a foreign country who is familiar with definitions endorsed by an organization in the foreign country and the court decisions interpreting such definitions, on receiving a price quotation from a seller in Canada is constrained to construe it in the light of such definitions unless the quotation is clarified by a stipulation as to what definitions apply in making the price quotation.

In addition to the commonly used terms, there are many others, some of which are found in particular trades only. Where definitions are not formally approved and adopted by trade organizations for general use, it is necessary that a seller and buyer should specify exactly what is understood in respect thereto, indicating the obligations of both parties so that there may be no misunderstanding. In respect to "C.I.F." contracts, it further should be pointed out that the International Law Association adopted certain rules relating thereto in 1928 which, as later modified in 1931, are known as the "Warsaw-Oxford Rules."

An extensive list of technical abbreviations used in foreign trade and exchange transactions is given in Appendix III.

MARINE INSURANCE

IN OCEAN carriage the steamship company is not obligated to assume certain risks (such as "perils of the seas," etc.), and this fact will be made clear by the examination of the terms of the ocean Bill of Lading. Marine insurance, which is perhaps the oldest form of insurance, is designed to deal with all the various types of risk for which the carrier is not to be held accountable.

This is a complicated field and it is important that the exporter obtain adequate coverage of the risks, while at the same time avoiding the unnecessary cost of over-insurance. Matters which may be covered in the policy include the basic coverage of marine risks, war risks, risks of strikes and similar disturbances, partial loss, etc. It is usually desirable to obtain "warehouse to warehouse" coverage provided by Marine Extension Clauses, in other words to cover the export shipment from the time it leaves the exporter's factory to the point of its arrival at the premises of the consignee.

An export shipment may be insured under a specific policy issued for that particular shipment, or the exporter may arrange for floating policies which cover all his shipments properly declared through a copy of the individual insurance certificate sent to the Insurance Company.

The exporter should consult a reliable marine insurance broker in order to obtain the policy which best suits his particular needs and the requirements of his customer abroad.

SHIPPING AND DOCUMENTATION

In all aspects of export trade it is vital that great care be taken in understanding and complying with the requirements of the buyer and the regulations of the importing country, as well as Canadian Government regulations where they apply. Mistakes and misunderstandings can be costly, and, because of the distances involved, can give rise to lengthy delay.

These principles apply in the packing of the goods, which must be adequate to give satisfactory protection against physical and chemical damages as well as against pilferage throughout the voyage and yet not so elaborate as to increase the cost to an unnecessary extent. The marking should be durable in character and should be such as to properly identify and aid in the carriage of the shipment to its destination. The need of care is also apparent in the selection of the transportation routing, and in the appropriate description of the goods involved in order that the most favourable ocean transport rate may be secured.

The documentation of an export shipment calls for meticulous attention to detail. Here again errors or irregularities may result in heavy fines or the assessment of excessive rates of duty in the importing country, and may also make it difficult or impossible for the exporter to receive payment under the terms of a Letter of Credit.

There are several documents required for most overseas shipments, each of which is a study in itself:

(a) Ocean Bill of Lading—which may be a Straight Bill authorizing delivery of the goods to the named consignee, or an Order Bill which requires presentation of a negotiable original in order to claim the shipment (may require legalization by the Consul of the country to which the goods are consigned);

(b) The Commercial Invoice (may require legalization by the Consul of the importing country, and may also require certification as to origin and value of the goods by a competent authority such as the Canadian Manufacturers' Association);

(c) The Insurance Policy or Certificate;

(d) A draft or Bill of Exchange whose tenor reflects the terms of payment agreed between exporter and buyer;

(e) Customs Invoice or Certificate of Origin (Commonwealth countries);

(f) Consular Invoice and/or Certificate of Origin (for non-Commonwealth countries) which is subject to certification by the Consul of the country concerned (many non-Commonwealth countries require, in addition, an endorsation or certificate as to origin and value of the goods, signed by a competent authority such as the Canadian Manufacturers' Association);

(g) Packing list;

(h) Import License and/or Exchange Permit must, in the case of certain countries, be obtained from the importer and presented when applying for consular visa of customs documents. In the case of some countries it is sufficient if the number of the import license is indicated on all documents.

As far as Canadian Government regulations are concerned, the Export Entry Form B-13 is to be furnished, and an Export Permit may be required depending upon the nature of the goods and the country of ultimate destination.

Where imported materials or parts are used in, wrought into, attached to, or consumed in the manufacture of articles in Canada, and such articles are subsequently exported, the Canadian Government allows a drawback of 99% of all duties and taxes paid on such imported materials or parts. The claim form is known as K-32 and, if the importer of the materials or parts is not the manufacturer claiming the drawback, it will be necessary for the latter to secure from the Canadian importer a certificate of importation and sale. There are certain documents that have to be presented with the claim for drawback, such as the export invoice and the export entry form. An extra copy of the latter (Form B-13) should be completed and handed to the transportation company or parcel post authorities along with the other copies, with a note thereon requesting that the Collector of Customs (at the last port from which the goods leave Canada) stamp, sign and return it to the exporter for export drawback purposes.

In all these matters, the exporter who is unfamiliar with the procedure or with the requirements of the market to which he is shipping should consult the Department of Trade and Commerce, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and other expert advisers, and he may find it advisable to engage the services of a competent international freight forwarder. The Tariff Department of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association can supply members with summaries of the customs documentation requirements of any country, and time should be allowed to study these requirements well in advance of making a shipment.

A 'Review of Export and Import Procedure' was the subject of a lecture recently delivered by J. V. Horne, M.A., A.C.I.S., of the Assoc a-tion's staff at the University of Toronto Extension Course on Traffic Management. Copies of Mr. Horne's paper, which deals particularly with customs procedures (both Canadian and those of other countries) for commercial ocean freight and rail shipments, may be secured on application to the Tariff Department of the Association, 67 Yonge Street, Toronto.

GOVERNMENT EXPORT SERVICES

THE GOVERNMENT of Canada provides many facilities to help Canadian manufacturers find export outlets for their goods. Canadian Trade Commissioners are always eager to bring Canadian manufacturers together with prospective importers in the countries where they are stationed. A former Director of the Canadian Trade Commissioner Service, in an address to members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, pointed out that Canadian businessmen are not taking full advantage of the services offered.

He said that Canada has perhaps the finest government trade promotion force of any country in the world. No country has a better or a keener group of trade commissioners—a finer corps of commercial intelligence reporters—than in the Canadian Trade Commissioner Service. There are 113 trade commissioners in 59 strategic centres of the world. As taxpayers, Canada is footing a bill of something like $2 million annually to maintain these men in the field to dig up business for Canada, to send back information, trade inquiries, business openings. They are there to help the business man who travels to find new markets, or to make contacts for the man who is unable to explore for himself.

Reports received at Head Office indicate that a great many Canadian firms are not taking advantage of this service. More than that, many of them are literally taking the inquiries—the offers of business—and are throwing them in the wastepaper basket. Paying for them and throwing them away! That's our problem, and it is a problem, because the time may come when a lot of firms in this great country will be crying for business and wondering why they haven't any export trade.

"Foreign Trade"

Market conditions and regulations change constantly. To help Canadian exporters and importers keep in touch, the Department of Trade and Commerce publishes a fortnightly magazine, Foreign Trade, which gives the most recent and authoritative information about trade possibilities. Foreign Trade contains information on economic conditions abroad, the trade situation, business methods, tariff and import regulations and other data of value to the exporter. An up-to-date list of trade commissioners, with addresses, is published each month.

Most of the articles in the magazine are written by trade commissioners in the field who know the markets intimately and who are well informed on what Canadian manufacturers have to offer. For example, there are articles dealing with changes in the import controls imposed by various overseas countries and detailed information is given regarding those products which are of special interest to Canadian manufacturers. Other articles report on conditions in particular industries in the country in which the trade commissioner is situated or give a factual analysis of the economic health of a whole area.

CANADIAN TRADE COMMISSIONER SERVICE

The Canadian Trade Commissioner Service, with headquarters at Ottawa, has offices under trade commissioners in many overseas countries. An Assistant Deputy Minister has charge of the work of the Service at home and abroad.

The headquarters staff includes five area trade officers, each in charge of a world trade area, as follows: Commonwealth, Europe, the Far East, Latin America, and the United States. The Area Trade Officer is responsible for coordinating the work of trade commissioners in his area. Area Trade Officers, who are trade commissioners on home duty, are also responsible for general information and inquiries regarding trade in their respective areas and should, whenever possible, be consulted by Canadian businessmen prior to travelling abroad.

There are 59 trade offices abroad, located in most of the strategic commercial centres of the world. In addition to the trade commissioner, many offices have one or more assistant trade commissioners, depending upon the importance of the post to Canadian trade. In those centres where Canada maintains a diplomatic mission, the trade commissioner is attached to the mission as a commercial diplomatic officer and is given the title of Minister (Commercial), Commercial Counsellor, or Commercial Secretary, according to his rank. When attached to a consulate, he carries the title Deputy Consul-General (Commercial), Consul (Commercial), or Vice-Consul (Commercial), according to rank, in addition to trade commissioner.

The duties of the trade commissioner are to introduce Canadian exporters and importers to the corresponding businessmen of other countries; to study conditions and needs of the territories where they are located; to obtain and forward inquiries for Canadian goods to headquarters at Ottawa and to Canadian exporters; to report on important requirements in their territories and to make direct inquiries or conduct preliminary surveys regarding the potential market for any product, reporting the exact kinds of goods wanted, competition to be met, methods of packing, shipping or billing, tariffs and trade regulations affecting these goods, etc.

With regard to imports, trade commissioners assist Canadian importers and manufacturers who desire advice on the present and prospective supply of goods and materials available in various countries, best methods of purchase, methods of approach to overseas suppliers, prices, specifications, packing, etc.

Trade developments the world over are reported by trade commissioners to the Department at Ottawa, and this information is available to all Canadian exporters and importers. They also prepare periodic reports on trade, business and financial conditions, markets for particular commodities, materials available for supply for import into Canada, and other related subjects for publication in Foreign Trade or in pamphlet form.

Trade Commissioners' Tours

The periodical return of trade commissioners for official tours of Canada is one of the most important factors in effecting practical co-operation between Canadian firms interested in foreign trade and businessmen in other countries. The trade commissioner can, during the course of his tour, call upon or discuss export and import problems with practically every firm interested in exporting to, or importing from, his territory. The department endeavours to bring back the trade commissioners by rotation, giving special consideration to officers in tropical or unhealthy posts; these visits are subject to the exigencies of trading conditions and of the Service generally. Well in advance of the time of arrival in Canada, individual exporters and importers are circularized for the purpose of arranging appointments. In addition, the department publishes a notice in Foreign Trade inviting firms who may be interested in any particular territory to state whether an interview is desired. The names of such firms, together with those with whom the trade commissioner has been in communication, form the basis of the itinerary. Businessmen anxious to interview any trade commissioner on tour may do so by communicating in advance with the Canadian Trade Commissioner Service or with the Canadian Manufacturers' Association or the local Chamber of Commerce.

Assistance Available from Canadian Trade Commissioners

Canadian exporters can obtain assistance and information from branches and divisions of the Department of Trade and Commerce, including officers of the Canadian Trade Commissioner Service in the posts abroad. Similar guidance is available to overseas traders interested in the development of closer commercial relations with this country.

In addition to the information which Canadian Trade Commissioners can provide direct, the Department of Trade and Commerce maintains a number of services in Ottawa which will prove helpful to prospective exporters. Preliminary inquiries should be submitted to the Commodities Branch or the Agriculture and Fisheries Branch, when relating to specific products, to Area Trade Officers of the Canadian Trade Commissioner Service, when dealing with specific foreign markets or sources of supply, and to the International Trade Relations Branch when dealing with tariffs, trade restrictions, licensing, etc. Other branches which can render special services are the Industrial Development Branch, Transportation and Trade Services Division, Export and Import Permit Division, and the Trade Publicity Branch.

Canadian exporters should request a listing in the Exporter's Directory, which is maintained by the Commodities Branch and supplied to Canadian Trade Commissioners throughout the world.

A list of Canadian Trade Commissioners and their respective territories is published periodically in Foreign Trade and Commerce Extérieur, issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce. The specific information obtainable from Canadian Trade Commissioners is listed below for the convenience of exporters.

Market Requirements — The trade commissioner can advise on:

(a) present and prospective market conditions;

(b) types and classes of goods offering or required;

(c) specifications, where required;

(d) competition;

(e) suitable buying and selling methods.

Sales Channels — The trade commissioner can:

(a) assist in finding responsible firms in a position to act as agents, distributors or buyers;

(b) advise on methods of sales approach and expansion.

Business Terms — The trade commissioner can give full information on:

(a) current basis of price quotation;

(b) current terms of payment;

(c) financing of shipments;

(d) exchange regulations.

Samples and Literature — The trade commissioner can:

(a) recommend methods of distributing catalogues, price lists and other trade literature;

(b) recommend methods of handling samples.

Credit Information — The trade commissioner can:

(a) furnish confidential guidance on the status of overseas as well as of Canadian firms;

(b) give confidential reports on the activities of overseas firms acting on behalf of Canadian business houses.

Tariffs and Regulations — The trade commissioner can supply information on:

(a) customs tariff rates and regulations;

(b) other government regulations, prohibitions, and the like;

(c) documentation requirements, such as invoicing for customs purposes;

(d) certification of documents;

(e) marking and packing;

(f) import and export quotas and permits.

Debts and Difficulties — The trade commissioner can:

(a) give advice and assistance toward the settlement of difficulties that may arise between Canadian and overseas businessmen;

(b) give guidance in respect to the recovery of debts;

(c) make suggestions as to the disposal of goods which have not been accepted.

General — The advice of the trade commissioner can be sought in regard to:

(a) the most suitable advertising media;

(b) storage facilities;

(c) shipping services;

(d) regulations concerning commercial travellers;

(e) travel procedure;

(f) patents, brands and trademarks;

(g) standards;

(h) other subjects related to international trade.

Information Needed by Trade Commissioners

When making inquiries from trade commissioners, the exporter should:

(a) state whether his firm is a producer, agent or merchant;

(b) give an accurate description of the goods, their specifications, qualities and grades;

(c) bear in mind that prices, f.o.b. factory, are of no use in practically all cases and that prices must be quoted c.i.f. or c. & f.;

(d) indicate terms of payment desired;

(e) where helpful, give technical information concerning the use of the product;

(f) make clear the time lapse between receipt of order and possible shipment;

(g) where necessary, stipulate quantities for which orders will be accepted;

See Index of Subjects Page 241

(h) give details of any previous agents or selling or buying connections in the territory and, if connections still exist, their relationship with the fresh contacts sought;

(i) state any previous experience in the territory.

COMMODITIES BRANCH

The principal role of the Commodities Branch is to direct the attention of Canadian manufacturers to business opportunities abroad, and to supply information to Trade Commissioners concerning interests of Canadian exporters. The Branch maintains close connections with the business community through Commodity Officers specialized in various commodity trades. The Branch is also responsible for administration of the Export and Import Permits Act, and for the continuous attention which must be given to Canada's participation in international arrangements for control of strategic materials.

In the field of trade promotion it is the duty of officers of the Branch to ensure that trading opportunities brought to light by the Department's widespread activities are made known to Canadian business, and that exporters are aware of the services that the Department has to offer. Commodity officers are called upon for a variety of specialized trade promotion efforts. These extend from plant visits and interviews, preparation of trade studies and market surveys, to making arrangements for the exhibiting of goods abroad and the introduction of Canadian products into new markets.

The trade promotion work of the Branch begins at the point of finding Canadian products on which to concentrate promotional efforts. Great emphasis is placed on the discovery of products which might be exported or exported in greater volume. When such products are discovered, detailed reports are sent to Trade Commissioners throughout the world to encourage market research and promotion.

The sale of certain products in export markets is facilitated through their display in fairs and exhibitions abroad. This particularly applies to fully manufactured goods. The Commodities Branch, working in co-operation with the Canadian Government Exhibition Commission, is at times able to arrange for a trial presentation of Canadian products in overseas trade fairs and in the United States market. Assistance and information is also available to Canadian exporters who wish to display goods in American trade shows.

The Branch is responsible for administration of the United Kingdom Token Import Scheme, insofar as certification of vouchers and issuance of new quotas is concerned. It assumes responsibility for issuance of allocations and vouchers required under the British West Indies Trade Liberalization Plan.

The Transportation and Trade Services Division of the Branch studies and keeps business interests advised on developments in shipping, road, rail and air transportation relative to foreign trade. The Division maintains current information on services and facilities, either foreign or Canadian, that in any way affect the transportation of Canadian exports and imports. Data on restrictive measures affecting cargo movements, port charges, trade routes, changing currency restrictions and taxation of transportation earnings is also available and furnished to Canadian firms. The Canadian businessmen can look to the Division for counsel and assistance on cargo movements, cargo claims and other transportation matters. It also deals with questions concerning cable, telegraph and telephone services abroad, which have an effect on Canadian foreign trade.

AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES BRANCH

The Agriculture and Fisheries Branch consists of three divisions, the Grain Division, the Food and Agriculture Division and the Fisheries Division. It is concerned with the promotion of trade in agricultural and fisheries products. This includes the planning and co-ordination of promotional activities, as well as programming, analysing and disseminating information on foreign agriculture and fisheries.

The Grain Division is responsible for liaison between the Canadian Wheat Board and the Department of Trade and Commerce, while the Food and Agriculture and Fisheries Divisions maintain close contact with the Departments of Agriculture and Fisheries, respectively, on matters pertaining to production and availability of supplies. All three divisions are in constant touch with the trade in relation to trade promotion.

The branch works closely with the Canadian Trade Commissioner Service, which includes a number of officers with training in agriculture and fisheries, situated in countries which are either important markets for Canadian agricultural or fisheries products, or with which Canada competes for world markets. These officers supply information dealing with various aspects of agriculture or fisheries in those countries. This material, which is augmented by similar information from other members of the trade commissioner service, is reviewed and analysed by the branch and made available to appropriate government departments and boards, as well as associations and others who may be interested.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE RELATIONS BRANCH

The International Trade Relations Branch has major responsibilities in the development and conduct of Canada's trade and commercial relations with other countries. In addition to participation in trade and tariff negotiations, the Branch provides immediate and direct service to Canadian exporters through initiating consultation with other governments on particular trade problems and through supplying detailed and up-to-date information on foreign tariffs, import and exchange controls and other foreign regulations and restrictions affecting export sales of their products.

The branch follows closely commercial and economic developments at home and abroad to enable views to be formulated in the interests of Canadian trade. In respect of trade and tariff negotiations detailed preparatory work is carried out through trade analysis and in consultation with trading interests with a view to expanding export opportunities for Canadian products. This preparatory work is followed through by the Branch in the direct process of negotiation with other countries. Close attention is paid to the conduct of Canada's trade with particular reference to Canada's rights and obligations under international agreements and arrangements. When Canadian trading interests are adversely affected or threatened by actions of other countries appropriate remedial action is initiated by the Branch. Such action includes efforts to find practical solutions to particular tariff problems, the relaxation of quantitative restrictions and in general to work for the removal of barriers to Canadian exports to other countries.

To assist Canadian firms in their export trade, the Branch maintains complete and up-to-date information on Customs regulations and tariffs, import and exchange controls, documentation requirements, sanitary marking and labelling regulations, and other regulations and requirements of other countries directly affecting trade. Details of these regulations are supplied on request. New measures in this field are publicized through the Department's official publication Foreign Trade and by other means.

TRADE PUBLICITY BRANCH

"Promotion through Print" might well be the slogan of the Trade Publicity Branch. Wherever the external trade of Canada can be assisted and promoted by the publication of commercial data, there is the field of this branch.

The objectives of the Trade Publicity Branch are (a) to acquaint Canadian businessmen in particular and the public generally with the facilities offered by the Department of Trade and Commerce; (b) to stimulate in Canada an appreciation of the importance of export and import trade to the Canadian economy and to cultivate an informed approach to foreign trade transactions; and (c) to encourage foreign businessmen to consider Canada as a possible source of supply for goods required by them and as a market for their own commodities.

This branch is responsible for publication of Foreign Trade and Commerce Extérieur, which contain reports from Canadian Trade Commissioners on market and economic conditions in their respective territories, reports and articles by Commodity Officers and other personnel of the Department of Trade and Commerce, in Ottawa, trade and tariff information, foreign exchange quotations and other information of value to the commercial community. The annual subscription is $2.00 for delivery in Canada and $5.00 for delivery abroad.

INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC AND TECHNICAL CO-OPERATION BRANCH

The administration of Canada's participation in the Colombo Plan — a Commonwealth effort to help the peoples of South and South-East Asia to raise their standards of living and productivity — is the responsiblity of this branch. The Canadian contribution is of two types, capital assistance and technical co-operation. Under capital assistance, grants of goods or services are made to countries in the area on a government-to-government basis. Technical co-operation embraces the training of Asians in a variety of fields in Canada and the supplying of Canadian experts to advise and instruct abroad. The funds to finance Canada's contribution to the Colombo Plan are voted by Parliament on a yearly basis.

The Division also assists the United Nations and its specialized agencies in the recruiting of technical experts and in the arrangement of courses of instruction for trainees sent to Canada for study.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT BRANCH

The Industrial Development Branch works closely with interested parties in connection with (1) the establishment of new industries, (2) the utilization of excess manufacturing capacity, and (3) the development of new products, including those suitable for export markets. Most of the work carried out by the Branch is undertaken on a confidential basis, as requested by the principals seeking assistance. The Branch maintains close liaison with provincial, municipal and other agencies concerned with industrial development.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT EXHIBITION COMMISSION

Under Order-in-Council P.C.4171, the Canadian Government Exhibition Commission, Department of Trade and Commerce, is responsible for the organization and administration of all Canadian exhibits in international exhibitions and fairs — cultural, informational and trade — in which the Canadian Government decides to participate.

The Commission is required to work out methods by which practical assistance and advice can be extended to Canadian manufacturers and producers to increase the sale of their goods in countries abroad through the medium of exhibitions and trade fairs. In addition, the Commission endeavours to advise exhibitors and their agents on the best means of displaying Canadian products in countries abroad.

The Canadian Government Exhibition Commission maintains an office and plant in Ottawa, as well as a small branch in the United Kingdom.

EXPORT CREDITS INSURANCE CORPORATION

This Crown Corporation was established by Act of Parliament in 1944. Administered by a Board of Directors, including the Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, the Deputy Minister of Finance and the Governor of the Bank of Canada, the Corporation insures exporters against non-payment by foreign buyers due to some of the major risks of loss involved in foreign trade. The Head Office of the Corporation is in Ottawa and branch offices are maintained in Montreal and Toronto. It is represented in Vancouver by an official of the Department of Trade and Commerce. An Advisory Council, consisting of members from all parts of Canada representing the services of banking, manufacturing industries, and the primary industries of farming, fishing, lumbering and mining, meets from time to time with the Directors and Officers to discuss the Corporation's operations and to advise on policy matters.

The insurance is available under three main classifications:

(a) General Commodities sold on short credit terms which are usual for the particular trade concerned;

(b) Capital Goods sold on medium credit terms which often extend over a few years;

(c) Services.

The General Commodities Policies are issued to cover an exporter's entire sales for a period of a year, with renewal privileges, whereas Capital Goods Policies are issued on an individual basis to cover each specific contract of sale. Services Policies are also issued on an individual basis.

The risks insured by Export Credits Insurance Policies include: insolvency or protracted default on the part of the buyer; exchange restrictions in the buyer's country preventing the transfer of funds to Canada; cancellation of an import licence or the imposition of restrictions on the import of goods not previously subject to restriction; the occurence of war between the buyer's country and Canada; or of war, revolution, etc., in the buyer's country; and additional transport or insurance charges occasioned by interruption or diversion of voyage outside Canada or the continental United States of America.

Premium rates for this insurance protection are nominal and have averaged less than 1% on all business done by the Corporation to date. Policies are issued on a co-insurance basis and the Corporation insures exporters up to 85% of the selling price.

BUREAU OF STATISTICS

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics issues detailed monthly, quarterly and annual reports on Canada's foreign trade. These are extremely useful to exporters and those interested in developing export markets, and to manufacturers and others interested in information on imports. Other statistical publications also provide useful data on other aspects of the Canadian market.

The monthly reports on the Trade of Canada give information on trade by commodities, showing for each commodity listed the total quantity and value of the trade and the quantity and value of trade with individual countries. Quarterly reports record trade by countries, showing for each foreign country the quantity and value of trade for every commodity separately listed. A final annual report in three volumes provides complete statistical detail, with comparative figures for two previous years, analyses of the statistics, and information on tariff revenues. Preliminary bulletins supply advance summaries of trade information each month.

The Bureau also issues semi-annual and annual reviews of Canada's trade, which summarize and interpret the detailed statistics and direct attention to the more important changes they reveal. From these figures the businessman can see what Canadian goods are going to foreign markets and to some extent assess the possibilities for export of his own products.

Statistics on the Canadian balance of international payments are released in quarterly and annual reports. These can also be useful to the Canadian manufacturer in studying the international background affecting trade.

All these trade publications — together with numerous others dealing statistically with manufacturing and a wide range of Canadian economic and social activities, many of which provide useful information in planning marketing and production programs for particular industries— are available at nominal rates from the Bureau of Statistics and from the Queen's Printer, Ottawa. Information as to titles, contents and prices of its reports and bulletins is contained in the Bureau's "Current Publications", copies of which may be obtained free on request.

EXPORT SERVICES OF THE CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION

Practical Assistance to Exporters

The Canadian Manufacturer's Association, with its specialized Service Departments and its Division and Branch offices across Canada, is in a particularly strong position to assist its members in developing export trade.

More than 2,000 firms in the membership of the Association are interested in export, while many hundreds of the Association's members are substantial importers of materials and equipment. The Association also assists members with their import problems.

Service Departments

Established over 88 years ago, the Association's growth has paralleled that of manufacturing industry and export trade in Canada and it has built up Service Departments with a background of experience and information extending over many years. Indeed, export trade is specifically mentioned as a prime object of the Association in its Constitution, which provides that "The objects of this Association shall be to promote Canadian industries and to further the interests of Canadian manufacturers and exporters, and to render such services and assistance to the members of the Association and to manufacturers and exporters generally, as the Association may deem advisable from time to time."

There are many complications connected with doing export business. Questions concerning the transportation of goods overseas, the tariffs and other trading restrictions of importing countries, marine insurance, trade practices, trade statics, credit information, translations, invoicing requirements and a multitude of other incidentals constantly arise.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, particularly through its Commercial Intelligence, Tariff and Transportation Departments, can be of great help in dealing with these problems. Having experienced management and the cumulative knowledge of many years' studies, these Departments are able to render a comprehensive service to members, covering all phases of export business.

Export Trade Committee

As a means of co-ordinating, at a single committee level, the mechanics of dealing with policy matters over the whole range of Association studies, services and activities in the field of export, the C.M.A. Export Trade Committee was formed in February, 1957. This Committee acts as a joint sub-committee of the Commercial Intelligence and Tariff Committees and its scope is exclusively in matters affecting the export trade of Canada's manufacturing industries, including reference to the impact of imports. It co-ordinates the Association's export studies which were previously carried on under the auspices of the above-mentioned committees and makes recommendations as to the Association's policy and action in relation to matters arising from time to time affecting the export trade of member companies.

Facilities for Assisting Exporters

The Association provides an extensive range of direct and indirect services, enters many activities, provides information on a large number of topics and makes specialized studies of a variety of matters of interest to exporters. Some examples of these services, activities and topics are as follows:

Abbreviations used in foreign trade

Agency agreements abroad

Canadian Trade Index

The Association performs a particularly valuable service in the interests of Canadian export trade by compiling and publishing annually "The Canadian Trade Index," a volume of over 1100 pages, containing a complete list of all Canadian manufacturers with a carefully classified list of their products, together with much other useful information for industry and for firms engaged in export and import business. With the co-operation of the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa, copies of "The Canadian Trade Index" are distributed to hundreds of importers in overseas countries through the offices of the Canadian Government Trade Commissioner Service.

Industrial Canada

"Industrial Canada", as the official monthly publication of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, is issued for the same purpose as the Association was formed — to promote Canadian industries and to further the interests of Canadian manufacturers and exporters. As well as containing a great deal of information concerning the development of Canadian industry and articles of interest to manufacturers generally, news is published each month on a variety of matters affecting foreign trade in Canada and in other countries with which Canadian exporters do business. Such foreign developments as changes in exchange and customs regulations, export controls, import licensing requirements, customs tariffs, foreign exhibitions, transportation news, etc., all help to keep Canadian exporters up-to-date on trade matters. Regular monthly features of special interest to exporters are to be found under the headings "Tariff News", "Trade Developments", "Transportation News", "Fairs, Exhibitions and Conferences", etc. In addition, from time to time, there are general articles on some important features of special interest to exporters.

Meetings and Conferences

The Association holds frequent meetings, large and small, to hear addresses on export trade, to entertain visitors from overseas, to discuss export problems and kindred matters and generally to promote the interests of Canadian exporters. At Annual General Meetings, largely attended Conferences on Export and International Trade are organized. The Export Study Clubs, organized in Toronto and Montreal under the auspices of the Commercial Intelligence Committee of the Association, present a well planned programme of export education and provide a forum for the exchange and discussion of up-to-date information on export markets and techniques. During the season just passed, the following topics held the attention of Club meetings: the Commonwealth Trade and Economic Conference; trade with Red China; Communist trade objectives; Trade Fair Programme; export packing and packaging; trading with the West Indies; European Common Market; the effects of the St. Lawrence Seaway on Canada's trade; and trade prospects in Australia.

In addition, the Export Study Clubs have organized special projects for the examination of export market possibilities and the study at first-hand of customs procedures in the United States and the transportation facilities through which foreign shipments are handled. In 1950, members of the Export Study Club of Toronto paid a two-day visit to Detroit, while in the same year the Montreal Club travelled to New York; in 1954 Montreal members joined with those from Toronto in another successful New York visit; in 1953, and again in 1957 both Clubs joined in visits to Ottawa; and on a number of occasions visits have been undertaken to water, rail and air traffic installations in the Montreal and Toronto areas, including the St. Lawrence Seaway project.

Policy on Export Trade

In connection with export and international trade a continuing study has been made of controls of materials, and the international currency situation. The Association maintains close co-operation with the Department of Trade and Commerce, the Department of Finance, the Department of External Affairs, and is in close touch with the Federation of British Industries, the National Association of Manufacturers in the United States, similar organizations in other countries, the International Chamber of Commerce, and the Inter-American Council of Commerce and Production.

The Association stands for and advocates the greatest possible trade between nations and believes that steadfast support should be given to existing international organizations and institutions in their efforts to solve the problems of world trade and finance. It recognizes that the well-being of the Canadian people depends to a great extent on the volume of Canada's export trade, which provides the means of purchasing necessary imports.

The Association believes that the extent of Canada's export trade depends to a great degree, upon the ingenuity and hard work of the many thousands of Canadian firms and individuals engaged in the export of food-stuffs, raw materials, manufactured goods and services. Exporters must have all possible knowledge of the trade practices and requirements covering export shipments and it is for this reason that the Association has paid so much attention to its specialized departmental services which have continuously expanded to keep abreast of the times.

In the increasingly complex modern world, however, government policy plays a growing part. Canadian Governments have always displayed a keen interest in the problems of exporters, and, wherever and whenever necessary, the Association has placed the views of exporters before the Government. Canadian manufacturers and exporters are particularly fortunate in being served by a Trade Commissioner Service which is second to none in the world, and the Association has had particularly cordial relationships with these officers who, on their Canadian tours, have made C.M.A. offices their headquarters for over fifty years.

Explanation of List

THE LIST beginning on the following page comprises the names and addresses, alphabetically arranged, of all firms appearing in the classified section of the Canadian Trade Index. In this list we have tried to give the users of the book some information that will be useful in getting into quick touch with the makers of any desired article.

No street addresses are given in Part 3 (the classified article section). These are recorded where necessary to complete the address in Part 2 (the alphabetical list).

We have not attempted to give, in this list, any full account of the products. These will all be found under separate headings in the classified section on pages 511 and following. Where the firm or company name does not indicate clearly the line of goods manufactured, some of the main articles produced, or the nature of the firm's business, are mentioned.

The address given is that of the main place of business in Canada, usually the head office, although it may be both factory and office address. The addresses given later, under "Factories," "Mills," or "Plants" are generally those of branch factories. Branch offices also are given.

For. Rep. or simply Rep. means foreign or other representative for export sales purposes.

The Cable addresses and codes will be found useful in initiating and transacting export business.

Names of new firms received too late for listing in the main body of the green section will be found under "Additions" at the end of this section.

The Editor.
